

Summit Trip on Trollsteinen: Snow shoes through the Polar Night

The mountain ridge around Larsbreen (Lars' Glacier) is shaped like a horseshoe. A huge rock towers at the highest point of the ridge. Shrouded in the blue light of the polar night, this place truly earns its name - Trollsteinen (the Troll Rock). Up here, 850 mas, the trip continues through the Arctic winter underneath the starry sky and Northern Lights of the polar night.

Equipped with solid snow shoes and head lamps, we will set course up Larsbreen to the glacier plateau, where we will take a break to enjoy a hot lunch. From there, we will tackle the last hill up to the ridge, which will lead us to the mighty Trollsteinen. From the ridge and the summit itself, the view of the landscape bathed in the subdued tinges of the polar night is breath-taking. We will return the same way down the glacier. We can do this on ski as well if prebooked and confirmed by mail. Bring with you your own skiing equipment. During summertime, our Trollsteinen Mountain hike will start to climb up Sukkertoppen. We recommend bringing with you a backpack with extra warm jacket and cold water for the hike.
